

The Blue Goose insignia, designed by J.N. Ding Darling, is the symbol of the National Wildlife Refuge System. These refuges are part of a nationwide system of over 550 refuges set aside for the conservation and management of fish, wildlife and plant resources for the benefit of present and future generations.

In the heart of California's high-tech industry lies a 30,000-acre oasis for millions of migratory birds and endangered species. Created in 1974, this national wildlife refuge was largely the result of community efforts to protect the San Francisco Bay ecosystem.

In Alviso, you can explore a variety of the Bay's habitats. Take a stroll through the butterfly garden, walk the boardwalk over the marsh, or hike and bike along miles of levee. The Alviso trails will provide you with unique opportunities to get out into the Bay's wetlands and see their incredible wildlife.
